

Coffee Run by Sean Leahy Saturday July 16th

"It's all about driving your Porsche..... Everything else is just waiting ". Well that's not exactly the Steve McQueen line, but who amongst us has not felt that way at one time or another---- even Steve.

So in the spirit of putting that unpleasant waiting behind us, I have scheduled a coffee run for Saturday 7/16/2016.

Our point of departure will be Dan Jacob's Hairy Dog Grrrage.(if you plan to attend, kindly RSVP me by Wednesday 7/13, (s.leahy6323@att.net) so that we have a head count for A.M. refreshments, courtesy of HDG. A big Thank you to Dan & Donna!!

We will convene at 8:30 a.m. to sign onto our journey. After a brief driver & navigator meeting, we will release our itching Gypsy feet to the road less traveled. Motoring on a Northwest passage thru the towns of Roxbury, Washington, and Sharon, viewing old white churches, colonial homes, stone walls and farms situated on rolling hills, all the while following Porsche friendly roads. Our continuing scenic meander will bring us to the Empire State and an invigorating hill "climb. This may not be "The Hill" in Colorado, but all the same, it will provide some enjoys, and maybe an occasional Yikes!! At this point a pit stop will be in order. We will take a break while still in N.Y. State. Once refueled, we will begin the second leg of our foray. Returning to Connecticut and passing thru the "border towns" of Sharon and Salisbury we will enjoy the vistas of our background as our trek continues to unfold. As time passes but does not pass away, we will journey to a luncheon destination.

Please Note; lunch will be on our own. We will gather in a central location in the Litchfield Commons. Some options in the immediate area include: @The Corner, The Village Restaurant ,The Saltwater Grille, Ollies Pizza, and The West Street Grille.

In the event of inclement weather, I will reschedule the event. Any questions feel free to email me Sean Leahy (s.leahy6323@att.net)
